Over 20 years of serving the elderly in the community

Located in Boston's Chinatown neighborhood, South Cove Manor is the only Asian elderly Nursing and Rehabilitation Home 100% committed to serving the Chinese community in the Northeast United States. South Cove Manor is owned by South Cove Nursing Facilities

Foundation Inc., a nonprofit organization. We opened our doors to care for Chinese elderly in 1985. Since then we have focused on making South Cove Manor the best health care option for Chinese seniors and their families.

Our Commitment to Education

The George A. Schlichte Learning Center is our educational healthcare information resource for South Cove Manor staff, residents and their families, as well as the Chinatown community at-large.

Focused on serving non-English speaking elders and caregivers, the Learning Center provides bilingual materials that help people better understand their health care related issues and options. Patrons can borrow books, reference material, videotapes and access the World Wide Web's bilingual resources.

The learning center also features an ongoing breakfast seminar program. Please look on our website for details.

Open free to the public.

Our excellent reputation comes from:

- Our Record of 11 Consecutive Perfect Annual State Department of Public Health Surveys: We are proud of our record of quality care, which is #1 in the country!
- Exceptional Patient Care: Our residents get the best in modern medical care. Our staff of Registered Nurses, LPN's and Certified Nursing Assistants are up-to-date on the latest clinical, therapeutic and patient care advances. We are proud to have several Master Degreed Registered Nurses on our full time staff.
- Professional Bilingual Staff: We hire and train the very best professionals, and we provide on-going development and education. No high turnover, no unfamiliar faces, no "working short staffed". And nearly all of our facility staff are bilingual, so language is never a barrier to care and comfort.
- Culture, Community and Caring: Our understanding of the importance of culture – from authentic, traditional Chinese cuisine prepared by our Chinese chefs, to a relaxing game of Ma Jong, and celebration of Boston's Chinatown community events and holidays - means that our residents remain a vital member of their community. We even have a Satellite Television system to receive news and programming directly from China – 24 hours a day.
